

Please leave the No-Call list as is. We work long hours and cherish our time at home in the evenings and wish to talk only to friends and family members by phone. If we have discontinued services with an institution and they are able to phone us for 18 months and try to "woo" us back, we consider that harassment, not customer service.

If we've left them, it's been for a better deal or because they provide poor customer service, and 18 months worth of harassing phone calls will bring us back to them!
